Waldo, S. Putnam. Tour of President James Monroe; President of The United States, In the Year 1817; Together With A Sketch of His Life, His Inaugural Speech and First Message; and Historical and Geographical Notices of The Principal Places Though Which He Passed. Hartford, CT: F. D. Bolles & Co., 1818. First Edition.

4" x 6.5", pp. xii, 2-300. Tipped in SIGNATURE "Jas Monroe" adjacent to printed title, "Secretary of State" from a clipped government document on vellum. Rebound spine with new endpapers, tight and prepared to last the next 200 years. Pages are toned with foxing, light tide mark at the top right corner of first 10 pp. and last 6 pp., half inch chip at top right corner of title page, not affecting any print. Original, brown leather cover is buffed along edges, wear through at front corners, scraping on front and back. Spine is in attractive rebuilt condition. Very good in not issued dust jacket. Brown marbled leather covers with new brown leather spine, titling in gilt on black leather label on spine.

"Capt. William Washington, who, seconded by Lieutenant JAMES MONROE, led the advanced guard of the left column, perceiving that the enemy were endeavoring to form a battery - rushed forward, drove the artillerists from their guns, and took two pieces in the act of firing." (p 4. Christmas Day 1776 Battle of Trenton) $550

Adams, John Quincy. An Eulogy on the Character of James Monroe, Fifth President of the United States; Delivered at the Request of the Corporation of the City of Boston on the 25th of August, 1831. Boston, MA: J. H. Eastburn, 1831. First Edition.

5.25" x 8", pp. 6-100. Attractively rebound, with new end papers. Tipped into ffe, cut, partially printed, government document, dated 10th day of April, 1828 SIGNED "J. Q. Adams". Also signed by "Geo Graham", Commissioner of the General Land Office. Adams signature is typically diminutive and deliberate, fading in his last name. Graham's signature has dulled on the back half. Pages are wavy with some fade along edges, moisture ring on back page, in all a remarkably well preserved Memoriam.

"The opinions of James Monroe upon doubtful or controverted points of Constitutional Law, can never cease to be deserving of profound respect. Thye were never lightly entertained. They were always deliberate, always disinterested, always sincere." (p 88) $800

Harrison, Benjamin. Clipped Signature with Provenance. New York: June 1st, 1895.

SIGNED "Benjamin Harrison". 4.75" x 1.5" adhered to cardboard backing. Typed "Very sincerely yours", followed by signature. In a different hand beneath the signature is the provenance, "written to C. Ellis Stevens from Fifth Ave. Hotel NY. June 1st 1895"

Benjamin Harrison (Aug 20, 1833 – Mar 13, 1901) was the 23rd President of the United States from 1889 to 1893. He was a grandson of the ninth, William Henry Harrison. Dr. C. (Charles) Ellis Stevens (1853-1906), was widely written and read as an authority on Constitutional Law from New York. He was a pastor of both Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches as well as decorated by the countries of England and Spain. Very good.

"I pity the man who wants a coat so cheap that the man or woman who produces the cloth will starve in the process." Benjamin Harrison" $550

Waldo, Putnam S. Memoirs of Andrew Jackson; Major-General In The Army of the United States; and Commander in Chief of the Division of the South. Hartford, CT: J. & W. Russell, 1819. Fifth Edition, Improved.

.4" x 6.5", pp. vii 10-336. Rebound with new leather spine and end new clean endpapers, pp. are toned with foxing, chipping on two free front, blank, original endpapers, ¼' spot on front edge. Original, brown leather cover is buffed along edges, wear through at corners, scraping on front and back. Spine is in fine condition. Tipped in to second blank ffe is 9" x 2.25" cut from a partially printed land grant, SIGNED by Andrew Jackson in 1832. Additionally, signed by Elijah Hayward, Commissioner of General Land Office. Jackson's signature is 6.5" long, underlined, a bit faded, but quite readable. Half a dozen autographed words on the rear as well as a partial signature.

"Volunteers were again invited by Gen. Jackson to resort to his standard under which they had always conquered. The whole civilized region of the Mississippi, was "wide awake." The unbounded popularity of Gen. Jackson induced the militia not only with promptness, but with animation, to repair to the rendezvous, and "Tennessee Volunteers" under their gallant, accomplished and beloved leader were in motion again." (p 158) $600

[Martin Van Buren]. Message From the President of the Unites States, With Signature of President and Vice President; Doc. No. 10 & 11. 25th Congress, 3d Session. House of Representatives. Pertaining to the Bequest of James Smithson, Smithsonian Bequest. np: Dec. 10, 1838.

5.25" x 8", pp. 2-67 & pp. 2-18. Attractively rebound, with new end papers. Tipped into ffe is a 5" x 4", cut, SIGNATURE "M. Van Buren of New York" and in a different hand, "Rh. M. Johnson of Kentucky 25 June 1840" On the rear is written "John M. Niles of Connecticut", though not directly visible. This applied cut signature likely came from a Governmental Postal Document. Very good pamphlets, with barely any foxing dots.

Maarten "Martin" Van Buren (December 5, 1782 – July 24, 1862) served as the eighth President of the United States from 1837 to 1841. A founder of the Democratic Party, he served as the ninth Governor of New York, the tenth Secretary of State, and the eighth Vice President Richard Mentor Johnson (October 17, 1780 – November 19, 1850) was the ninth Vice President of the United States from 1837 to 1841. He is the only vice president ever elected by the U.S. Senate under the provisions of the Twelfth Amendment. Johnson also represented Kentucky in the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate. His political career was bolstered by the credit given for having personally killed Indian Chief Tecumseh.

John Milton Niles (Aug 20, 1787 – May 31, 1856) was a lawyer, editor, author and politician from Connecticut, serving in the U.S. Senate and as U.S. Postmaster General 1840 to 1841. VG Documents housed in a Fine cover. Rich brown leather with brilliant gilt titling on cover.

"Hon. John Quincy Adams: Sir: By the will of James Smithson, late of London, deceased, property to a considerable amount was bequeathed to the United States for the purpose, as expressed in the language of the will, of 'founding at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.'" "I felt real proud of my position as bugler. I would stand very erect as I would put the bugle nonchalantly to my lips and blow real mellow tones. Satisfied with my tone Mr. Davis gave me a cornet and taught me how to play Home Sweet Home. Then I was in seventh heaven. Unless I was dreaming, my ambition had been realized." (p 46) $1,100

NATURAL HISTORY AND THE AUDUBON FAMILY

Audubon, Marie. Audubon and His Journals; With Zoological and Other Notes by Elliot Coues. New York: Charles Scribners Sons, 1897. First Edition. Letter from Edward Wilson to James J. Audubon tipped in to FE: Feb 10, 1845

ALS from Edward Harris to J. J. Audubon explaining circumstances as to why he may not be able to join the upcoming Missouri River Expedition. (Harris ultimately joined Audubon on both of his expeditions). Letter has a 2" closed tear from top of letter down to the top mailing fold (note: it was tipped into the book such that it was stressed upon opening the front cover), lower letter fold has been professionally reinforced with clear tape, chip to rear of folded paper where wax seal was removed, upper fold has 1" closed tear which may soon need reinforcement as well) Laid in HNS: May 24, 1909 from Ruthven Deane to Frank S. Daggett (1855-1920) giving him the books with his compliments.

Ruthven Deane is cited in the preface by M. Audubon ("Next to the memory of my father, Mr. Ruthven Deane has been the motive power which has caused this volume to be written"). Frank S. Daggett was an ornithologist, Director of the Museum of History, Science and Art in Los Angeles. Both volumes have F. S. Daggett bookplates.

Books have uncut bottom and fore edge with gilt on top edge. Minimal wear at head and base of spine, and light shelf wear on cover and back. Very nice copy of the books, however the letter from Harris is the star of these volumes.

Very good to fine. Green cloth with gilt titling and gilt emblem on front cover.

Content: " My dear friend / Circumstances have occurred which render it somewhat doubtful whether it will be proper for me to leave home at this time. The nature of these circumstances are such as to require my presence in New York to investigate them, and as I do not wish to put them on paper, I will defer explanation until I see you some time next week - when perhaps my presence may serve to obviate the difficulty. In the mean time I thought it most prudent to advise you the moment I became aware of the difficulty, knowing that you would feel the disappointment more severely and the detriment to your prospects would be greater if my defection were to be suddenly announced to you at a later period. Rest assured my dear friend that I had fully entered into the Spirit of the enterprise and that I shall feel most keenly any disappointment that may occur. I considered myself as fully enlisted and had announced to the world my determination to join you, and if I am compelled to abandon my intention, and that without being able to explain my reasons to the world, I shall feel most deep mortified and vexed. With these views and feelings you may rest assured that I will make a great effort to overcome every obstacle. I will call at your office as soon as I reach New York (perhaps Tuesday or Wednesday) and go to Minnies Land as soon after as possible. With kind regard to all Your sincere friend Edward Harris"

"Dear Mr. Daggett, Please accept enclosed with my compliments - Harris seems a little doubtful about joining Audubon on the Proposed Missouri River Expedition, He makes thhis arrangements however, and started with the party on March 11, 1843, You know the rest. Sincerely Ruthven Deane" $2,250

Sand, Maurice. Masques et Buffons; Comedie Italienne. Paris: A Levy Fils, 1862. 2 Vols, First thus.

7.25" x 10", Vol. 1; pp. vii, 1-336, Vol. 2 pp. 1-384, each with 59 hand color prints of period, costumed characters in the book. This book is in French. Marbled maroon endpapers which are cracked front and back on both volumes. The pages are fine and clean, the illustrations are still colorfully brilliant, dappled edges. The covers have bumped corners and sun faded spines, with minimal wear and a few scuffs at the edges.

This book was rebound from the original with the large initials "V. A." stamped on the cover. It is known to have come from the heirs of John James Audubon. This book may have belonged to Victor Gifford Audubon Jr. (Aug 21, 1847 - Sep 19, 1915), a grandson of J. J. Audubon through his father V. G. Audubon Sr. VG +. Maroon leather with four raised bands on the spine, titling in gilt with gilt flourishes, and initials V. A. stamped on the front cover. $500

Karalau, Karl E. and Text by Allan W. Eckert. The Owls of North America; (North of Mexico) All the Species and Subspecies Illustrated in Color and Fully Described. Garden City: Doubleday & Company, 1974. Limited Edition (No. 27 of 250).

SIGNED "Karl E. Karalus and Allan W. Eckert" on limitation page. 9" x 12.13", pp. xxii, 3-278, includes 59 color plates and scores of B&W maps, diagrams and detailed drawings of owl breeds. Wonderful book with green and brown marbled end papers, brilliant gilt edges, Western Long-eared Owl 2 pp. frontispiece, second frontispiece is a tipped in color print of the Arctic Horned Owl. Fine condition with equally fine slipcase. Rich green leather with titling and bands in gilt on the spine housed in a gray mottled slipcase with title on beige label.

This (Long-eared Owl) is one of the more distinctive of all the North American Owl species, being quite heavily marked all over its plumage, having distinctly contrasting coloration, and exhibiting a set of ear tufts which tend to be more erect, narrower and set somewhat closer together than those of the Horned Owl." (p 72) $250

Wilson, Alexander and Prince Charles Lucien Bonaparte. American Ornithology; or The Natural History of the Birds of the United States; Includes The Illustrative Notes and Life of Wilson By Sir William Jardine. London, Paris and New York: Cassell Petter & Galpin, c. 1878.

5.5" x 8.5", Vol. 1: pp. cv, 2-408, Vol. 2: 495, Vol. 3: 540 in 3 Volumes with 103 colored plates. Very good set of these volumes, originally produced by Wilson in 1808-1814, updated by Bonaparte 1825-1833 which included over 100 previously undescribed species. Books are firm and well bound, lightly discernible fade at the top of some pages, dark red marbled end papers, similar marbled edges, faded but still attractive on top edge. All three volumes once had ex-libris book plates from a collector in Gross Pointe, Michigan, now non-expertly removed. Exterior is buffed along the edges, leather worn through at the corners, scuffing and spines, bindings in tact with no separation. The colored plates are intense and vivid.

Alexander Wilson (Jul 6, 1766 – Aug 23, 1813) was a Scottish-American poet, ornithologist, naturalist, and illustrator. Identified by George Ord as the "Father of American Ornithology", Wilson is regarded as the greatest American ornithologist prior to Audubon.

Very good. Half tan leather with tan leather corners, marbled paper over boards, titling on spine in gilt on red and black labels with 5 raised bands and gilt flourishes between bands.

"Few birds can form a more interesting acquisition to the fauna of any country than this really fine (Evening) grosbeck." (p 328) $850

Overholtzer, Annie. State Normal Herbarium; Partially printed, holographicly completed set of detailed botanical descriptions. Monmouth, Oregon: Oregon Normal School, 1902.

8.25" x 10.5". 38 three-page records for collected plant specimens. The first page is a hand written description on a template, including 7 drawings of each part of the plant. The second page is a transcribed poem or quote about nature, plants, joie de vivre. Between the second and third page (stiff cardboard) is a 115 year old, pressed specimen of the described plant. Pages have light scattered toning and an occasional dog-ear. Some second pages have stain on verso from pressed specimens. Pressed flora is in very good condition, flowers still colorful, branches and petals still in tact.

Annie Overholtzer was an elementary school teacher known to have taught at Elgin in Western Oregon. Oregon Normal School, a teaching college, combined with Oregon College of Education, and Western Oregon State College to form Western Oregon University. Very good. Loose pages kept inside a folded leather binder with moire spine and corners. A unique and lovely item.

"Nature produced a perfect work when she fashioned this little plant, so simple, so charming in every way, with its one unique leaf and its one unique blossom." (Wildflowers of California, Clara G. French) $150

Steele, Joseph (1672-1719) and Sir Richard Addison (1672-1729). The Spectator. London: C. Bathurst et. al., 1775. First Bound Edition.

5" x 8.25", 8 Volumes, blue and pink marbled end papers A1 - li pp. 1-485. Each volume has a forest green silk book marker, the page where the marker lies has discoloration. Engraving on all title pages. Seven volumes have all or most of applied, boxed title frames on each spine. Each volume has two ex-libris bookplate; Casimir I. Stralem on the fe and Harry H. Schwartz on the ffe. Inside the covers, the books are very clean and well bound, seemingly seldom read.

Darkened gilt top edges, age fade on pages, shadowing of verso text, but little to no foxing. All volumes have cracking on both edges / side of the spines, wear mostly along the bottom edge and wear through at most corners, scuffing on front and backs. Text includes Vol. 1-635

Casimir Ignace Stralem (1875 - 1961) was the father of Donald Sigmund Stralem. Donald was investment banker who married into the Lehman family. He and his wife Jean were a significant financial and philanthropic couple.

Harry H. Schwartz (1896-1983) was president of National Department Stores Corporation from 1936 until 1955, when he retired to pursue personal investments. A 1916 graduate of Columbia College, Mr. Schwartz joined his father in the family business, Julius Schwartz & Sons, manufacturers of boys' and students' clothing.

Very good +. Brown marbled leather with gilt tool on the spine and a thin double line gilt border on front and back and gold diagonal braid along the edges. Red boxed title and blue boxed volume leather label on the the spine. Only six copies in WorldCat. Uncommon set, attractive as is, great potential if rebound.

The Spectator was a periodical published daily by Joseph Addison and Sir Richard Steele, both politicians, which was one of the bestsellers of the 18th century. Its issues sold up to 4000 copies a day, and carried news and comment, but especially comments on manners, morals and literature. The publication pretended to be the reports by a Mr Spectator on the conversations of a club comprising representatives of the country squirearchy, the town, commerce and the army. Its essays show that urban life in the 18th century was not so far different from today, with observations on begging and binge-drinking. 'Mr Spectator' particularly comments on debt. $975
